

A subordinate command of U.S. Army Contracting Command, ACC- Redstone Arsenal's civilians and Soldiers support Soldiers worldwide by contracting for major weapon system production and services vital to our Soldiers' mission and well-being.

ACC-RSA, at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., is a major contracting center that provides support to the Army Material Command; Aviation and Missile Command; Program Executive Office, Missile and Space; PEO Aviation; Aviation and Missile Research, Engineering and Development Center; Redstone Arsenal – Garrison; Test, Measurement, and Diagnostic Equipment Activity; Space and Missile Defense Command; and Department of Defense Counter Narco-Terrorism Program Office. ACC-RSA also provides contracting support to several other program executive offices and program managers supporting the U.S. Army's major acquisition programs.

ACC-RSA's civilians and Soldiers support warfighters worldwide by contracting for research and development, major weapon system production, sub-systems and services vital to our Soldiers' mission and well-being. From helicopters to missiles; systems engineering and technical assistance; research and development to technology and engineering; counter-narcotics deterrence; concept development, prototyping and limited production capability; foreign military sales; contingency support; range support; and operational support, ACC-RSA ensures Soldiers have what they need to be successful.

ACC-RSA offers the contracting expertise of some of the best-trained people in the Army, ready to support the Soldier while ensuring responsible stewardship of taxpayers' funds.

ACC-RSA ensures contracting support to the warfighter as mission requirements emerge and as the Army transforms and moves within the continental United States and around the globe.

ACC-RSA awarded more than 20,000 contract actions in fiscal year 2014 valued at more than $17.6 billion. ACC-RSA accomplishes this with more than 800 military and civilian personnel.
