

ARMY CONTRACTING COMMAND FACT SHEET

Impact Statement:

A major subordinate command of the Army Materiel Command, the U.S. Army Contracting Command's Soldiers, civilians and contractors support Soldiers worldwide by acquiring equipment, supplies and services vital to our Soldiers' mission and well-being.

Headquartered at: Redstone Arsenal, ACC is a two-star level command with two subordinate one-star commands—the Expeditionary Contracting Command (for locations outside the continental U.S.) and the Mission and Installation Contracting Command—and six major contracting centers that provide support to AMC's life cycle management commands and major subordinate commands. These centers also provide contracting support to several program executive offices and program managers supporting the U.S. Army's major acquisition programs.

ACC's Soldiers, civilians and contractors support war fighters worldwide by acquiring equipment, supplies and services vital to our Soldiers' mission and well-being.

From food and clothing to bullets and bombs; from tanks, trucks and HMMWVs to boats and planes; from their weapons to the installations where they work and live with their families, ACC ensures our Soldiers have what they need to be successful.

As the Army's business conduit, ACC offers the contracting expertise of some of the best trained people in the Army, ready to support the war fighter while ensuring responsible stewardship of taxpayers' funds.

ACC ensures contracting support to the war fighter as mission requirements emerge and as the Army transforms and moves within the continental United States and throughout the globe.

An international business enterprise, the command awarded nearly 198,000 contracts in fiscal year 2011 valued at more than $86 billion, which is equal to 68 percent of the Army's contract dollars and 16 percent of the total dollars spent on contracts by the entire federal government. ACC accomplishes this with more than 5,800 military and civilian employees at more than 115 locations worldwide.

The Expeditionary Contracting Command provides effective and agile contracting services across the full spectrum of military operations for U.S. Army Service Component Commanders in support of Army and joint operations as well as to other defense organizations at locations outside the continental United States. ECC accomplishes this vital mission through seven contracting support brigades, eight contingency contracting battalions and 83 contingency contracting teams throughout the world. In fiscal year 2011, ECC executed more than 49,000 contract actions worth almost $1.9 billion.

The Mission and Installation Contracting Command provides contracting support for the war fighter across Army commands, installations and activities located throughout the continental United States, Alaska and Puerto Rico. Its customers include the U.S. Army Installation Management Command, U.S. Army Forces Command, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command, U.S. Army North, U.S. Army Reserve Command and U.S. Army Medical Command. The MICC consists of seven mission contracting centers, nine mission contracting offices and 28 installation contracting offices. In fiscal year 2011, the command executed more than 63,000 contract actions worth almost $7 billion, including more than $2.8 billion to small businesses.

With a wealth of contracting expertise, ACC professionals are dedicated to providing the highest quality of contracting support to all of their customers, whenever and wherever needed. A combat multiplier, the Army Contracting Command is doing its part in to keep the Army strong.
