

U.S. Army Expeditionary Contracting Command

Mission: Plan and execute effective and agile contracting support for U.S. Army Service Component Commanders in support of Army and Joint Operations. Provide effective and responsive contracting support for OCONUS installation operations.

The U.S. Army Expeditionary Contracting Command's provides effective and responsive contracting support to Army commanders, joint war fighters, and other Defense organizations across the full spectrum of military operations at locations around the globe. The ECC supports Soldiers and their families stationed overseas through the execution of installation contracting support for OCONUS U.S. Army garrisons. Its professional workforce, comprised of Soldiers, civilians, foreign local nationals and contractors, supports the nation's war fighters by acquiring equipment, supplies and services that are vital to Soldiers' missions and daily needs. ECC offers time sensitive and comprehensive contracting expertise ready to support the war fighter while ensuring responsible stewardship of taxpayers' funds.

ECC is a major subordinate command of the U.S. Army Contracting Command headquartered at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. The one-star command is organized to accomplish its global operational missions through its nine Contracting Support Brigades, seventeen Contingency Contracting Battalions, sixteen Senior Contingency Contracting Teams, and ninety-two Contingency Contracting Teams.

A combat multiplier, this unique command has the capability to deploy anywhere in the world on short notice to provide operational commanders with contract support planning, contract policy and oversight, contract execution, contract administration and contractor surveillance in support of deployed forces. When designated as the lead service for contracting, ECC on order, will deploy the headquarters to establish a joint theater support contracting command (JTSCC) with the authority to function as the Head of the Contracting Activity (HCA Authority) and provide contracting guidance and acquisitions solutions in support of the Joint Force Commander.

U. S. Army expeditionary contracting is doing its part to keep the Army strong as it provides effective, responsive contracting in support of Humanitarian Relief operations, Natural Disaster Response missions, Combat operations and other contingency operations.

An international business enterprise, the command annually awards over 23,000 new contracts and completes over 47,000 contracting actions valued at more the $1.8 billion with a total contract value over $21 billion. This mission is accomplished by 657 military and 686 civilian employees at more than 30 locations worldwide. In addition to the OCONUS installation mission, the ECC supports 80 contingency contracting missions in 45 countries each year.
